

Publications

This page contains a list of:

- Seminars, symposia, posters, displays and workshops
- Working papers
- Publications
- Publications submitted for review

Only a very limited number of publications is available on-line. More will become available in the near future.

Seminars, symposia, posters, displays and workshops

Green, L. W., and C. J. Frankish. Health and social policy: cooperation among individuals, communities and centralized organizations in health promotion. Presentation given at: The National Symposium of the Netherlands Heart Foundation and the Association of Municipal Public Health Services, 9 November 1994; The Israel Public Health Association, Jerusalem, 10 November 1994; and The Victoria Health Promotion Foundation, Melbourne, Australia, 15 November 1994.

Hall, K. and students. Non-point pollution in the Brunette River watershed. Presentation to the Environment and Waste Management Committee of the Municipality of Burnaby, October 1994.

Healey, M. C. The lower Fraser eco-research project. Presentation given at: The First International Symposium on Ecosystem Health and Medicine, Ottawa, June 1994 and the International Association of Funding Agencies, Vancouver, February 1995.

Healey, M. C. Carbon, contaminants and fish. Presentation given at: Workshop on habitat management of the Fraser Estuary, Vancouver, April 1995.

Healey, M. C. Gauging the health of the Fraser Valley ecosystem. Presentation given at Chilliwack, March, 1995.

Hertzman, C. What's been said and what's been hid: Population health, global consumption, and the role of national health data systems. Presentation given at: The International Centre for Health and Society Conference, London, England, 1994.

Jennings, D., and V. Clark. Paper for upcoming conference: Role of the Actor in Institutional Theory. Interview studies examining development and implementation of water quality standards.

Lavkulich, L. M., et al. The Lower Fraser Basin in Transition. Symposium given by Terrestrial and River/River Margins Components student researchers to government and community participants at Kwantlen College, Surrey, B.C., May 4, 1995. Proceedings published under same title.

Lavkulich, L. M. Nutrient loading and assimilation. Symposium, B.C. Hog Producers, B.C. Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Fisheries, Abbotsford, B.C., February 1995.

Lower Fraser Basin Eco-Research Project: Overview. Developed for National Environment Week. On display at Eaton's Centre in Metrotown, Burnaby, B.C., June 8 - 10.

McDaniels, T., and L. Axelrod. Characterizing Perceptions of Ecological Risk. Presentation given at: Decision Research, Eugene, Oregon, May 1994; Carnegie Mellon University, September, 1994; Simon Fraser University, March 1995.

McIntosh, J. Planning for Sustainability: Tools for Promoting Personal, Community and Ecosystem Health. A presentation and poster session at the First International Symposium on Ecosystem Health and Medicine, Ottawa, June 19-23, 1994.

McIntosh, J. and S. Carter. Planning for Healthy and Sustainable Communities: Joint efforts being attempted by a UBC Task Force and the City of Richmond. Joint case study presentation with the City of Richmond, Senior Planner, at "Design Choices for a Sustainable Future", a one day conference during Design Week '94, Vancouver, B.C., March 11, 1994.

McIntosh, J., and M. Roseland. Sustainability: background, basic principles and examples. At a Sustainable Communities Workshop, Kimberley, B.C., April 23, 1994.

McIntosh, J. and M. Wackernagel. Working toward healthy and sustainable communities. Teaching about healthy and sustainable communities. Workshops conducted at Community Interaction Day and Professional Development Day, Comox Valley, B.C., May 5-6, 1994.

McIntosh, J., M. Wackernagel, and J. Moore. Planning for Sustainability. Poster session at Greening Our Cities Conference, Vancouver, B.C., May 7-8, 1994.

Richardson, J. S. and M. C. Healey. Autocorrelations in ecosystems across space, time, and disciplines: the case of the Fraser River. Presentation at the Workshop on Sampling Design for Aquatic Networks Across Scales, Portland, OR, September 1994.

Richardson, J. S. and M. C. Healey. Fish assemblages of the lower Fraser River: comparisons over 20 years. Canadian Conference for Fisheries Research, Ottawa, January 1995.

Richardson, J. S., M. C. Healey, and T. Lissimore. Fish assemblages of the lower Fraser River: comparisons over 20 years. North Pacific International Chapter Meeting of the American Fisheries Society, Vancouver, April 1995.

Sproul, J. Reconciling monetary value and eco-system value. Presentation at the Fisheries Centre, U.B.C.

Sproul, J. Economic history of the Fraser River valley. Presentation at two schools in Whatcom County, WA.

Woollard R. Embedded Systems: Human, Community and Eco-system Health. Presentation at: The First International Symposium on Ecosystem Health and Medicine, Ottawa, June, 1994.

Working papers

Brown, Melanie. 1994. Preliminary reports on the political culture and on the community leaders of Abbotsford and Matsqui.

Doyle, Aaron. 1994. A brief social history of the Abbotsford/Matsqui region.

Marlor, Chantal. 1994. Socio-demographic profile of Abbotsford and Matsqui 1991.

Wackernagel, M. 1994. How Big is Our Ecological Footprint?: Using the Concept of Appropriated Carrying Capacity for Measuring Sustainability. A brochure originally printed in 1993, revised in 1994.

Wackernagel, M., J. McIntosh, R. Woollard, and M. Carr (with City of Richmond Planning staff). 1994. Sustainability Report: the Issue of Big Box Retail.

Wackernagel, M. and W. Rees. 1994. The Ecological Footprint: Applied Down to Earth. Discussion Paper presented at the Ecological Economics Conference, Costa Rica, October 1994.

Publications

Boothroyd, P., L. Green, C. Hertzman, J. Lynam, S. Manson Singer, J. McIntosh, A. Ostry, W. Rees, M. Wackernagel, and R. Woollard. in press. Planning for Sustainability: Tools for Promoting Personal, Community, and Ecosystem Health. Journal of Ecosystem Health and Medicine.

Boothroyd, P., L. Green, C. Hertzman, J. Lynam, S. Manson Singer, J. McIntosh, W. Rees, M. Wackernagel, and R. Woollard. 1994. Tools for Sustainability: Iteration and Implementation. Chapter Ten in Ecological Public Health From Vision to Practice. C.M. Chu and R. Simpson (eds.), Nathan, Queensland: Institute of Applied Environmental Research, Griffith University (Australian Edition); Toronto: Centre for Health Promotion, University of Toronto (Canadian Edition).

Green L. W. 1994. Refocusing health care systems to address both individual care and population health. Clinical and Investigative Medicine 17(2): 133-141.

Green, L. W., and C. J. Frankish. in press. Health and social policy: individuals and communities versus central (national, state, provincial, corporate) policies in health promotion. Journal of the Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues.

Green, L. W. and C. J. Frankish. 1994. Organizational and community change as the social scientific basis for disease prevention and health promotion policy. Advances in Medical Sociology 4: 209-233.

Green, L. W., L. Potvin, and L. Richard. in press. Ecological foundations of health promotion. American Journal of Health Promotion.

Green, L. W., A. George, M. Daniel, C. J. Frankish, C. J. Herbert, W. Bowie, and M. O'Neill. 1994. Review of recommendations for the development of participatory research in health promotion in Canada. Report to the Royal Society of Canada.

Hertzman, C. 1994. What's been said and what's been hid: Population health, global consumption, and the role of national health data systems. Book chapter. The International Centre for Health and Society Conference, London, England.

Jennings, D. and P. Zandbergen. in press. Academy of Management Review. This paper focuses on how major institutions are built and on mechanisms for paradigm shifts.

Lavkulich, L. M. and H. E. Schreier. 1994. Land sustainability in the Lower Fraser Basin. Country Life December.

Ostry, A., C. Hertzman, and M. Steve. 1995. Changes in attitudes towards and awareness of a medical waste incinerator during the facility siting process. International Journal of Occupational and Environmental Health 1:1, Jan.-Mar.

Ostry, A., C. Hertzman, and K. Teschke. 1993. Risk Perception differences in a community with a municipal solid waste incinerator. Canadian Journal of Public Health 84:321-324.

Ostry, A., C. Hertzman, and K. Teschke. Community risk perception: A case study in a rural community hosting a waste site used by a large municipality. Canadian Journal of Public Health 84:415-418.

Ostry, A., C. Hertzman and K. Teschke. in press. Community risk perception and waste management: A comparison of three communities. Archives of Environmental Health.

Rees, W. 1993. Review Essay: Trying to Run with Laces Tied. Book Review of: Toward Improved Accounting for the Environment (An UNSTAT-World Bank Symposium) Ernst Lutz (ed.) 1993. Washington: The World Bank (318 pp, plus Index). Environment and Planning 26:8:1317-1319.

Rees, W. 1994. Pressing Global Limits: Trade as the Appropriation of Carrying Capacity. Chapter Three in: Growth, Trade and Environmental Values. T. Schrecker and J. Dalgleish, eds. London, Ontario: Westminster Institute for Ethics and Human Values.

Rees, W. 1994. Revisiting Carrying Capacity: Area-based Indicators of Sustainability. In: Proceedings, Evaluation Criteria for Sustainable Economy, Technische Universitat Graz, Graz, Austria.

Rees, W. in press. Achieving Sustainability: Reform or Transformation? Journal of Planning Literature.

Rees, W. and M. Wackernagel. 1994. Okologische Fussspuren und angeeignete Tragfahigkeit: Was die stadtische Okonomie ausser acht lasst. Politikinitiativen 7:34-68. Zurich: ADAG. (German translation of "Ecological Footprints and Appropriated Carrying Capacity: What Urban Economics Leaves Out" originally published in Environment and Urbanization 4:2;121-130 [1992]).

Rees, W. and M. Wackernagel. Perceptual and Conceptual Barriers to Investing Natural Capital. Ecological Economics (forthcoming).

Richardson, J.S. and M.C. Healey. Autocorrelations, discontinuities, and environmental monitoring: the case of the Fraser River (under review).

Slovic, P., T. McDaniels and L. Axelrod. in press. Perceptions of Risk to Humans and Nature: A Research Plan. In: R.T. DiGuilo and E. Morosen (eds.) Interconnections Between Human and Ecosystem Health. Chelsea, MI: Lewis Publishers.

Wackernagel, M., and W. Rees. in press. Our Ecological Footprint: Reducing Human Impact on the Earth. Gabriola, B.C., Philadelphia, PA: New Society Publishers.

Woollard, R. 1994. Choices for a Sustainable Future. Health Care Forum Journal. May/June, 30-34.

Publications Submitted For Review.

McDaniels, T., L.J. Axelrod and P. Slovic. Characterizing Perception of Ecological Risk. Risk Analysis (under review).

McDaniels, T., L.J. Axelrod and P. Slovic. Lay Perceptions of Ecological Risks From Global Change. Global Environmental Change (under review).

Rees, W. Cumulative Environment Assessment and Global Change. Environmental Impact Assessment Review (under review).

Rees, W. Reducing Our Ecological Footprint. Siemens Review (forthcoming).

Mail your comments, questions or requests to sdri@sdri.ubc.ca.

---

[\[Home Page\]](#)

Webpage design by Marcia Pinto and Paul Zandbergen.